

SAILING SCHEDULE UPDATE for the Week of February 22, 2026

February 21, 2026

Dear Valued Customer,

As reported in the news, severe weather continues to impact the state this weekend and is forecasted to worsen and generate severe ocean conditions between the islands early next week especially for the Islands of Hawai'i and Maui. In anticipation of these conditions, Young Brothers will make the following adjustments to our sailing schedule:

Honolulu to Hilo sailing Saturday, February 21, 2026 (today) – NO CHANGES

The barge will depart as scheduled and is estimated to arrive in the Port of Hilo on Monday, February 23, 2026. YB expects that ocean conditions will create surge in the harbor. Harbor conditions permitting YB will discharge and loadback as much cargo as safely as possible. There are no changes to cargo acceptance at the Port of Hilo on Monday, February 23, 2026.

Honolulu to Kahului sailing Monday, February 23, 2026 – UPDATE

Current forecasts show large northeasterly swells that will impact YB's ability to safely arrive and stay in harbor at the Port of Kahului. For the safety of our employees, our assets, and your cargo, the sailing will be deferred at this time. The next sailing to Kahului is scheduled for Wednesday, February 25, 2026, when conditions are forecasted to improve. There are no changes to port hours of operations.

There are currently no other changes to any other scheduled sailings, however this may change pending weather and ocean conditions.
